MAKING THE GRADES

If records were kept in that department, UTSA's Lady Roadrunners just might have led the nation's basketball teams in grade point average last season. The University's women student-athletes, besides posting a winning record on the court, compiled a remarkable record in the classroom.

All seven of UTSA's letter winners returning this season made a 2.9 (B average) or better. Margaret Martinovich, an accounting major, was at the head of the class with a perfect 4.0 average as a freshman.
